South Daytona	0220
----------------------	-------------

Millage Code 401

South Daytona, a progressive City on the Halifax River, was once a town called Blake, with some 40 resident families and as many more non-resident property holders. By 1926, the towns of Daytona, Daytona Beach and Seabreeze were consolidated to make the City of Daytona Beach, as we know it now. Daytona Beach then proceeded to annex all the adjacent territory including the Town of Blake. Because of new taxes and appraisals levied, residents of Blake were forced to hire an attorney and eventually, about 1938, succeeded in breaking away from Daytona Beach to become the incorporated Town of South Daytona. The Town continued to grow and was incorporated as the City of South Daytona in 1951.

Size = Approximately 3.87 square miles

To contact the City of South Daytona, please call (386) 322-3063.
